Introduction

Necessity of beneficence and avoiding stinginess and collecting wealth has been considered since old times and Iranian poets have paid attention to this important issue since Rudaki as the father of Persian poetry to Saadi and Hafezm Sanaei and other poets and in this regard, Saeb Tabrizi has more emphasized this category. The aim of this article is to explain Saeb economic viewpoints on beneficence. In Persian literature life is considered broadly from materialistic and economical point of view and these aspects have outstanding reflections in Persian literature. Mohammad Ali the son of Mirza Abdulrahim Tabrizi Isfahani famous for Saeb was one of the great poets of Safavid period and he is one of the outstanding figures in Indian(Isfahani)style, Saeb observed Shah Abbass period, Shah Safi oppression, corruption of second Shah Abbass and preliminaries of decline of Safavid government at the Sultan Suleiman period. In this article we try to investigate different aspects of Saeb viewpoints on beneficence as the great poet of Safavid period and identify his opinions in this regard.

Economic categories have researched in the divans of Iqbal Lahori, Hafez, Firdausi and Parvin Etesami. Saeb's poems have been investigated from different perspectives but the economic and related concepts have not been studied in his divan and research in this scope can offer background for future research.

Beneficence

Beneficence is meant goodness, good deed, generosity and gift (Dehkhoda, 2011). Dedication is one of the valuable traits and conducts that is does not belong to a specific class of the society and all people can do it. Beneficence improves the poor conditions and purifies his heart from traits causing to poverty.

One of the aims of Islam is elimination of class differences in the society by blaming affairs including lucre and encouraging affairs like paying Islamic taxes including Zakkat, Khoms and beneficence, dedication and financial aids and most importantly survival of the spirit of faith and brotherhood among Muslims (Makarem Shirazi, 1999).

Human approaches God by giving of what he possesses and distances from immoral traits like envy, greed and other misconducts and he learns that to offer other what he has without any expectations and this act awakens the spirit of holiness in human and eliminates his dependency on the world. Beneficence has broad meaning and it does not cover only property but it covers knowledge, guidance, social prestige, material and spiritual capitals.

The statue of beneficence in Hadith

Imam Ali said: Generosity removes sins and invites the hearts toward generous origin (Holy Quran, 1738). Imam Sadeq said: The generous sinner young man is better than the curmudgeon pious old man. The holy prophet (peace be upon him) said: the best deeds are generosity and good behavior (Mohammadinasab, 1998).

Imam Ali said: The freed men become the servant by beneficence. Hazrate Fatima said: "I loved three things in the world and I love them: reading of Quran, looking at the prophet face and beneficence for the sake of God (Hadidi et al., 2013).

Beneficence from Saeb perspective

In Saeb opinion, the great men use their properties and wealth for helping the poor and they collect property less. Saeb has a positive outlook towards beneficence and believes that the generous people are never attached on wealth and properties and they never collect wealth as the rain droplets which are not remained in the clouds.

The gem is restless on the hand of the generous man

The droplet does not rest in the cloud

Saadi Shirazi has expressed this concept in other form:

The property does not rest on the hand of the generous men

Neither patience in the heart of the beloved not water in the screen (Froughi, 2010)

Saeb suggests that if a person wants to be benefitted from wealth and properties he should be use his properties in spiritual way and offer others and does beneficence.

Offer your properties for beneficence

Do not become content to treasure as dragon (Froughi, 2010)

These couplets remind us a proverb by Dehkhoda: "The freedmen are poor" (Dehkhoda, 2011)

The grade of generosity is higher than collecting wealth

In the fall the virtue of spring is more in the garden (Froughi, 2010)

In Saeb opinion falling of leaves in the fall and benefitting others after death is not real generosity but generosity is granting at the time of wealth.

Falling of the leaves in the fall is not generosity

Give up the wealth and property when you are living (Froughi, 2010)

From Saeb viewpoint the great person is generous and he believes that if the person offers others his properties his conduct causes to increase of wealth as the waves of the sea expand all over the shore the generous person offers kingship and greatness others.

I am generous as a sea when there is tide

I offer others by my waves and bubbles (Froughi, 2010)

Allah burdens not a person beyond his scope. He gets reward for that (good) which he has earned, and he is punished for that (evil) which he has earned. "Our Lord! Punish us not if we forget or fall into error, our Lord! Lay not on us a burden like that which You did lay on those before us (Jews and Christians); our Lord! Put not on us a burden greater than we have strength to bear. Pardon us and grant us Forgiveness. Have mercy on us. You are our Maula (Patron, Supporter and Protector, etc.) and give us victory over the disbelieving people." (Hadidi et al, 2013)

O, the owners of the dignities for blessing of being health

Offer the poor dervish blessing (Ghani, 1993)

Saeb believes that the worldly happiness and prosperity is on hand of others so he advises us that whenever we are powerful and have ability we should offer others. In his opinion, human life is limited and he will pass away without anything and only he can prepare for eternal life by beneficence.

The prosperity is on hand of other every moment

Do not hesitate on beneficence whenever you can
The human life is passing as wind
Only beneficence can bring together the sheets of this book (Froughi, 2010)
According to Saeb the man can rescue from this chaotic sea by beneficence and the safe coast needs to offer it your wealth.
By beneficence you can release from this turbulent sea
Besides this sea we cannot find anything except loafer (Froughi, 2010)

Beneficence and benefitting from this world and eternal world

Seab believes that if the person has the Korah treasure he will leave the world without anything and he can only be benefitted by beneficence and granting his properties and wealth. If the man does not use his properties for good deeds he will not save his eternal world. If you want eternal life you have to leave the worldly properties and affairs.
You have lost the cash of the world free
When you have attachment on the dinar and dirham
We have arranged for resurrection day by our cash
We have left the account of dirham and dinar (Froughi, 2010)
People who do beneficence in this world and use their properties for goodness they will gain their reward other world:
The likeness of those who spend their wealth in the Way of Allah is as the likeness of a grain (of corn); it grows seven years, and each ear has a hundred grains. Allah gives manifold increase to which He pleases. And Allah is All-Sufficient for His creatures' needs, All-Knower
We never underestimate generosity and dedication
We reached to cluster if we passed seeds
If you want to live forever be generous on the earth
The man gains much if he spends much (Golchin, 1994)

In Saeb opinion the person who does goodness and beneficence his conduct is like a candle that lights his tomb and beneficence and generosity lengthen the man life and guide him to eternal perfection.
Do beneficence in your life
It becomes a candle in your shrine
Beneficence is virtuous in this dark world
Its luminosity lasts until resurrection day
Beneficence is the key of paradise
If you want paradise leave dirham (Golchin, 1994)

In his perspective the person who solves other people problems and spend his properties for their sake he is also benefitted and he never losses but he gains something and stabilizes his wealth.
They have removed the burden on the people
They have found fruitfulness by beneficence
Generously aid your friend
Strengthens your position by beneficence
The person who does beneficence never feels misery
Do not blame granting become as shining sun (Golchin, 1994)

Conclusion

In Saeb opinion beneficence is the most outstanding manifestation of human power and virtue that enjoys at the time of granting and reaches perfection. He believes that granting should be without any intention to preserve the prestige of the poor and eradicate poverty in the society. In his opinion, the stingy people should not be expected to do beneficence. Granting and beneficence reduce the social distances.

If you want to live be generous on the earth
Everybody gains much if he grants much (Froughi, 2010)

There are many people who lived generously and left a good name forever and arranged for eternal life. The mortal worldly wealth becomes immortal by employing religious teachings. By such belief many problems can be solved.

Every blacked face tries to collect properties

He collects wood for burning (Golchin, 1994)

In contrary, there are individuals that do misconduct for gaining position and property and they are happy that they have could collect the world valueless properties. Saeb believes that ignorance is the worst poverty.

When you can make servants the fee men by beneficence

Do not become servant of the world gold and silver due to stinginess (Golchin, 1994)

Saeb introduces generosity as a reason for divine blessing and prevention of disasters in the world. In his opinion, the best granting is granting without expectation that the prophets are outstanding sample of such granting. He believes that granting and generosity increase wealth and properties.
